Learn history as you walk!

1. American Tobacco Company (Now site of Commonwealth)

As you enter the City from the north, the Lucky Strike smokestack is an iconic part of the Reidsville landscape just like the former company that put the City on the map!

5. 'Budding Future' Sculpture

This sculpture by Greensboro artist Jim Gallucci looks toward the future while paying homage to the City's past. The side panels of the sculpture show historical places and people from the City's yesteryear.

9. "Meet Me at the Square"

This sculpture located at Market Square shows people engaging in activities and enjoying this outdoor park and was financed by Home Savings Bank, now HomeTrust.

(Part of Market Square Code)

2. Reidsville City Hall

Once the Reidsville Post Office, the present-day City Hall includes a Gordon Samstag mural that pays tribute to the City's past.

6. Kelly's Way

This pedestrian link between parking and shopping provides a little piece of nature in a busy downtown. How often do you find a waterfall in the middle of a City?

10. The Penn House

On the National Register of Historic Places, this lovely home was donated to the City in 1980 and serves as a backdrop for a variety of special events.

3. Reidsville Municipal Building

Now home to the Reidsville Police Department, the Municipal Building was created to house all of City Government back in 1926.

7. Mural Park

This scenic spot in the downtown is highlighted by a mural depicting several scenes from the City's rich history. It is also a site for local events and picture-taking.

11. RCARE

You would never know that the Reidsville Center for Active Retirement Enterprises was built on a former mobile home lot. Just look at it now!

4. Reidsville Public Library

The Reidsville Library was actually the brainchild of the local Woman's Christian Temperance Union. Now it is part of the Rockingham County Library System.

8. Market Square

Reidsville's downtown outdoor park and venue is home to the City's Farmers Market and a favorite place for concerts, outdoor movies and more!
